WELCOME

Dear Media Friends,

Welcome to Milano Cortina 2026, and thank you for your coverage of the Paralympic Winter Games.

For the International Paralympic Committee, it is truly special to be back in Italy – a nation with a rich and proud Paralympic heritage. Italy hosted the very first Paralympic Games in Rome in 1960, and later the Torino 2006 Paralympic Winter Games. This country has played a pivotal role in shaping our Movement, and it is an honour to return for another landmark moment.

These Games hold added significance as we celebrate the 50th anniversary of the Paralympic Winter Games. The inaugural edition, held in Örnsköldsvik, Sweden, in 1976, welcomed 198 athletes from 16 nations. Since then, the Paralympic Winter Games have grown remarkably. Here in Milano Cortina, up to 620 athletes from around 50 countries will compete in 79 medal events – including the debut of the mixed pairs competition in wheelchair curling.

With world class venues that will bring out the best in every athlete, I am confident these will be the greatest Paralympic Winter Games yet in terms of sporting performance. For those experiencing Paralympic sport for the first time, I can promise a life changing journey. Research following Paris 2024 showed that 73 per cent of viewers came away with more positive attitudes towards persons with disabilities – and I have no doubt that Milano Cortina 2026 will inspire similar positive change.

These Games are already proving transformational, with significant investment from national, regional and local authorities into infrastructure projects and initiatives that will strengthen accessibility and inclusion across Italy.

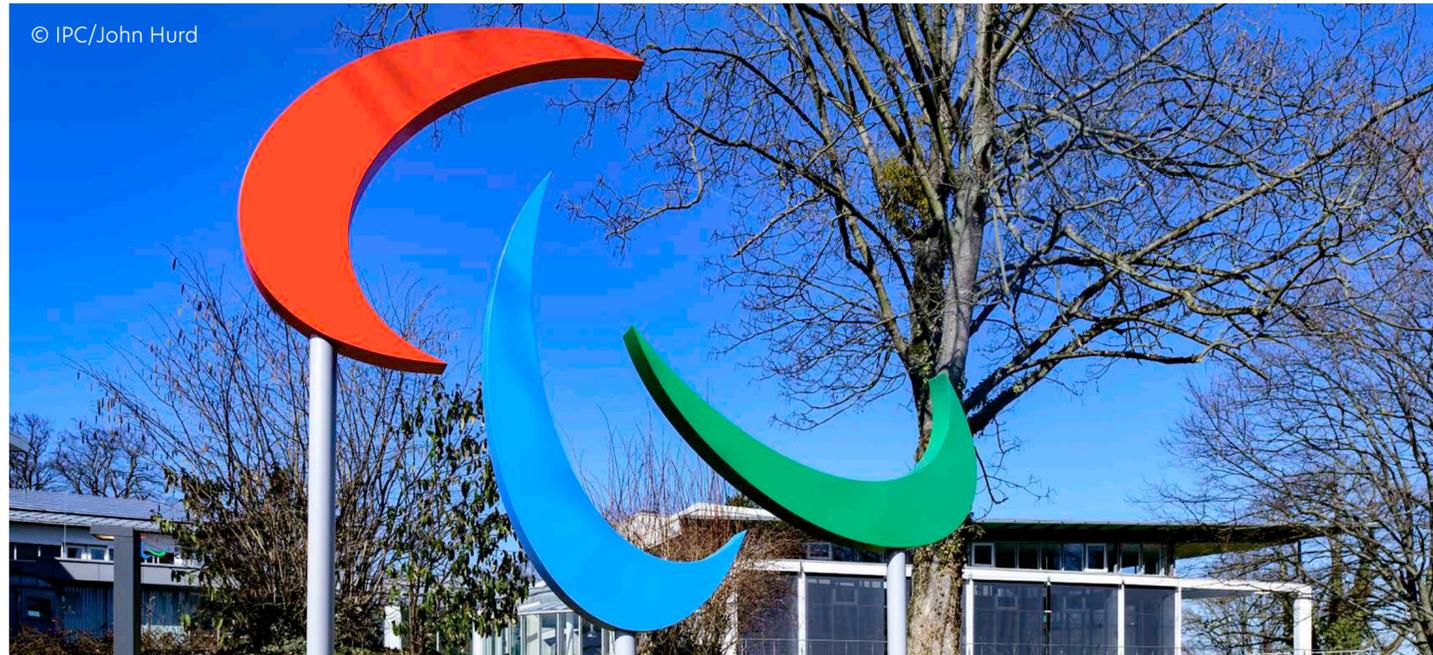

This IPC Media Guide is filled with useful information – from statistics on each competing NPC and sport to the history and evolution of the Paralympic Movement and the Paralympic Games. I hope you find it a valuable resource.

Enjoy the Paralympic Winter Games.

The Board is currently composed of 10 elected members. The President is Brazil's Andrew Parsons who is currently serving his third and final term having been first elected President in 2017. The two Vice Presidents are Portugal's Leila Marques Mota and Denmark's John Petersson.

Vladyslava Kravchenko and Josh Dueck, the Chairperson and First Vice Chairperson respectively of the IPC Athletes' Council also serve on the Governing Board which meets at least three times a year.

Eight of the current Board members are former athletes.

The next IPC Governing Board elections will be held in 2029.

In his role as CEO, Peters acts as the liaison between the governance and management responsibilities of the organisation.

THE IPC ATHLETES' COUNCIL

The IPC Athletes' Council is the collective voice of Paralympic and Para athletes within the Paralympic Movement. The Athletes' Council serves as an advisory body to the IPC Governing Board, carrying out tasks specifically delegated by the Board.

Six members are elected at the Paralympic Games and three members at the Paralympic Winter Games. In addition, the IPC Athletes' Council can appoint up to five additional members on two-year terms to ensure there is balance between gender, regions, sports and disability groups.

HISTORY OF THE PARALYMPIC MOVEMENT

The Paralympic Movement traces its origins to the visionary work of Sir Ludwig Guttmann whose revolutionary approach at Stoke Mandeville Hospital in the United Kingdom was to use sport as a rehabilitation tool for World War II veterans with a spinal cord injury.

So successful were his methods that on 29 July 1948 - the same day as the London Olympic Games Opening Ceremony - Sir Guttmann organised the first Stoke Mandeville Games featuring 16 injured servicemen and women competing in archery. Over the next decade, the Stoke Mandeville Games expanded into an international event, attracting athletes from different countries and paving the way for a global movement.

Under Guttmann's guidance and the support of Dr Antonia Maglio, the first Paralympic Games were held in Rome, Italy, in 1960 welcoming 400 athletes from 23 countries who competed in 10 sports. Since then, the Games have taken place every four years with a more diverse range of impairments permitted to take part.

In 1976, the first Paralympic Winter Games were staged in Örnsköldsvik, Sweden attracting 198 athletes from 16 countries who competed in Para alpine skiing and Para cross-country skiing.

Since the Seoul 1988 Paralympic Games and the Albertville 1992 Paralympic Winter Games, the Games have taken place in the same cities and venues as the Olympic Games due to a partnership between the IPC and IOC which has strengthened visibility of the event globally.

In 1989, the IPC was founded as the global governing body of the Movement, with Canadian Dr Bob Steadward serving as its first President. Under the IPC's guidance, the Paralympic Movement has grown into a leading force for inclusion and disability rights. Today, the Paralympic Games are recognised as one of the world's most transformative sport events, regularly drawing huge global audiences and driving societal change. The IPC now works with 211 member organisations to support Para athletes in achieving sporting excellence and advancing the Movement's mission.

MILANO CORTINA 2026 PARALYMPIC LEGACIES

Even before the Milano Cortina 2026 Paralympic Winter Games begin they are having a transformational impact on the host cities and regions in Italy, triggering tremendous changes which benefit the whole of society.

Here are seven legacies of the Milano Cortina 2026 Paralympic Winter Games that prove Change Starts with Sport:

1. Improved accessibility in ancient Roman city

During Roman times accessibility was not top of mind when it came to constructing infrastructure. Happily, almost 2,000 years later, accessibility is now a greater priority and now EUR 20 million is being spent on improvements ahead of the Games.

The investment will improve accessibility in public spaces, city routes and at the iconic first Century built Arena di Verona which will host the Paralympic Winter Games Opening Ceremony on 6 March.

Accessibility improvements have also been planned and implemented in major museums and tourist attractions. In 2025, elevators will be installed to provide access to the city's Bastions for people with mobility disabilities.

Currently 95 per cent of buses in Verona's urban network are wheelchair accessible and the Municipality's transport strategy aims to improve this further.

2. World's fashion capital made further accessible

Even before the eight team Para ice hockey competition gets underway in Milan, the city is already one of the most accessible in Europe.

Three out of five Metro lines are fully accessible, accounting for 83 per cent of all stations overall, while the city's buses are also fully accessible.

To improve the city further, EUR 55 million has been invested improving accessibility at 26 stations on the two Metro lines that were previously not accessible, installing elevators and stairlifts.

In addition, accessibility improvements are planned for all pedestrian routes and public transport stops directly related to the Games, such as the Santa Giulia Ice Hockey Arena which will stage Para ice hockey competition.

3. 1956 Olympic venue to meet highest standards

One tremendous legacy of the upcoming Paralympic Winter Games is that a venue used for the 1956 Olympic Winter Games will again be used 70 years later.

Ahead of hosting wheelchair curling competition and the Closing Ceremony, the historic Cortina Curling Olympic Stadium is being upgraded to include new elevators and enhanced facilities to meet high accessibility standards.

The Municipality of Cortina has also established a working group on accessible tourism, involving specialised organisations and key community stakeholders.

Through the "Destination4All" project, the Municipality of Cortina - in collaboration with the Milano Cortina 2026 Foundation and the Hotel Association - is promoting the mapping and accessibility improvements of hospitality and restaurant facilities in preparation for 2026.

As well as hosting wheelchair curling and the Closing Ceremony, Cortina d'Ampezzo will host Para alpine skiing and Para snowboard competition.

4. Accessible tourism

The Municipality of Cortina, Province of Trento, Province of Bolzano and Veneto region are taking measures to improve accessibility and implement programmes that encourage accessible tourism for all.

The Province of Trento, which will host Para cross-country skiing and Para biathlon events, has developed the “Trentino for All” project with the goal to make the region an inclusive destination accessible to individuals with disabilities.

Major museums have undertaken or scheduled interventions which will be completed pre-Games to improve accessibility and usability for visitors with motor, sensory, or cognitive disabilities.

In 2023-2024, the Veneto region also provided funding of EUR 22 million to support accessible and eco-friendly hospitality infrastructure in mountain and Games-related area.

The goal for the Province of Bolzano is make natural trails, mountain paths, and lake areas more accessible to everyone, while the Province will also enhance disability-related tourist information on its tourism portal.

5. New accessible trains and infrastructure

In the Lombardy region, 53 new accessible trains have been ordered at cost EUR 416 million while accessibility upgrades have taken place at several stations, including platform elevation, barrier removal, new elevators, improved audio-visual information systems, and external area modifications.

In the Province of Bolzano, nearly all train stations along the Val Venosta, Val Pusteria, Brenner, and Bolzano-Merano railway lines have been renovated and are now barrier-free. The Valdaora-Anterselva station, a key hub for the Games, has also been upgraded. In preparation for the Games, the Province has acquired 15 additional low-entry trains, allowing for step-free boarding.

6. Sport for all

Through the Veneto region 2022-2026 regional sport policies, the aim is to promote sports holistically - both competitive and recreational - while ensuring the best use of Veneto’s sports facilities. Key initiatives include facility improvements, with funding for both sports promotion and infrastructure development, as well as support for equipment purchases, sporting events, school sports inclusion, and accessibility for athletes with disabilities.

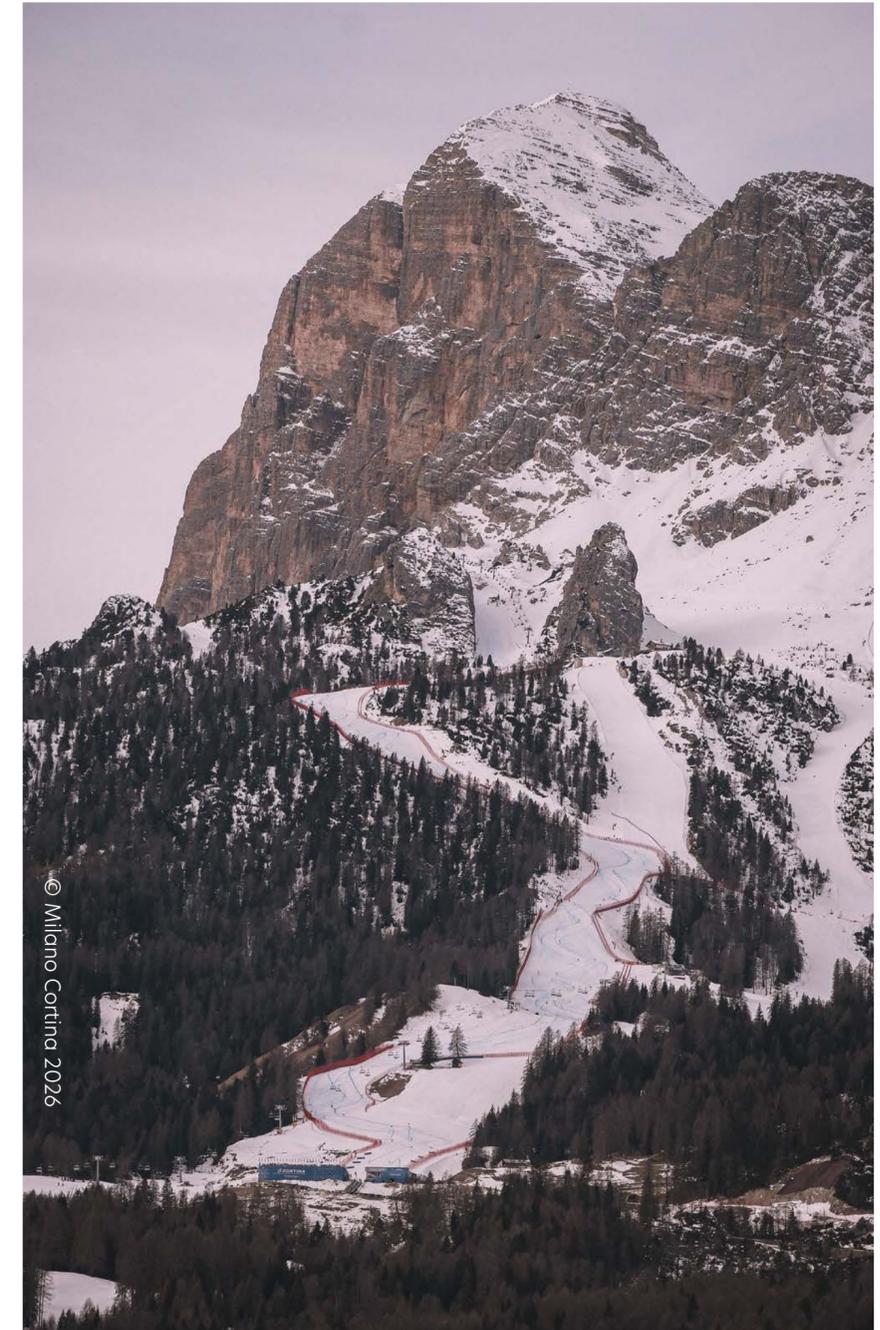

The Province of Bolzano is collaborating with the Italian Paralympic Committee to provide training and financial support for local athletes of national interest who are likely to participate in Milano Cortina 2026. Curricular and extracurricular school projects are also being developed.

7. Improving access at airports

As with all editions of the Paralympic Games, it is vital that athletes, officials and all other stakeholders travelling for the Games benefit from a smooth arrival and departure into the host country.

Ahead of the Paralympic Winter Games, the Organising Committee with the support of the IPC, have conducted accessibility audits of both Milan Malpensa and Venice Airports, the main ports of entry for the Games.

Following the audit, the operators of both airports are resolving several identified issues in order to improve accessibility.

Paralympic Winter Games history

Para alpine skiing made its debut at the Örnsköldsvik 1976 Paralympic Winter Games with 78 athletes from 12 countries competing in two disciplines - slalom and giant slalom.

Downhill was added to the Paralympic programme in 1984 in Innsbruck, Austria, while super-G was added in 1994 at Lillehammer, Norway. Super combined was included as a Paralympic discipline at Vancouver 2010.

Initially only athletes with an amputation and vision impairment were able to compete in Para alpine skiing events at the Paralympic Winter Games. Sit-skiing was introduced as a demonstration sport at the Innsbruck 1984 Paralympic Winter Games and became an official part of the programme at Nagano 1998.

The sport has been governed by FIS since July 2022, having previously being governed by World Para Alpine Skiing.

Since the sport made its Paralympic debut in 1976, 29 countries have won at least one medal, including 23 that have won a gold medal.

Austria, who topped the Para alpine skiing medals table at Beijing 2022, is the most successful Paralympic nation in the sport to date, winning 280 medals, including 94 gold.

The most successful male athlete is Germany's Gerd Schoenfelder (16G, 4S, 2B) while the most decorated female skier is fellow German Reinhild Moeller (16G, 2S, 1B).

At the Vancouver 2010 Paralympic Winter Games, Canada's Lauren Woolstencroft made history when she became the first athlete to win gold medals in all five disciplines. Germany's Anna Schaffelhuber repeated the feat at Sochi 2014.

Paralympic Winter Games history

Para biathlon was first included in the Paralympic Winter Games at Innsbruck 1988 with standing athletes competing. Four years later at Tignes-Albertville 1992, athletes with vision impairments were also included.

Women's Para biathlon events, as well as events in the sitting class, were added to the Paralympic programme at Lillehammer 1994.

At Torino 2006, Ukrainian athletes were the first to complete a medal sweep in the sport winning gold, silver and bronze in the women's 10km sitting. Ukraine repeated the feat in the women's 7.5km sitting, as did Russia in the men's 12.5km sitting.

At Beijing 2022, 86 athletes from 14 nations competed in Para biathlon events. Seven nations had athletes win medals. The Ukrainian duo of Oksana Shyshkova and Vitaliy Lukyanenko, as well as the USA's Oksana Masters, won two gold medals apiece.

To date 21 nations have won Paralympic medals in the sport, including 16 that have won gold. Ukraine is the most successful nation (23G, 28S, 28B).

Germany's Verena Bentele (5G, 0S, 1B) and Ukraine's Vitaliy Lukyanenko are the most successful female and male athletes in the sport respectively.

Paralympic Winter Games history

Para cross-country skiing appeared at the inaugural Örnsköldsvik 1976 Paralympic Winter Games with standing and vision impaired athletes competing. Men and women used the classical technique in all distances until skating was introduced at the Innsbruck 1984 Paralympic Winter Games. Since then, Para cross-country skiing events have been split into two separate races: classical and free technique.

The new technique, however, was not officially used in a medal race until 1992 in Albertville, France.

Sitting events were introduced at the Lillehammer 1994 Paralympic Winter Games.

Male and female athletes compete in sprint, short distance, middle distance and long distance (ranging from 1km to 30km) or participate in a team relay using classical or free techniques.

To date, Norway is the most successful nation in the sport while the most male and female athletes with the most victories are Canada's Brian McKeever (16G, 2 S, 1B) and Norway's Ragnhild Myklebust (16G, OS, OB) respectively.

Paralympic Winter Games history

Para ice hockey was introduced to the Paralympic Winter Games at Lillehammer 1994 with Sweden defeating hosts Norway 1-0 in sudden death to win the first gold medal.

Norway's gold medal win at the Nagano 1998 is the last time a European nation has won the Paralympic title.

The USA is the most dominant force in the sport. The team won gold for the first time at the Salt Lake City 2002 Paralympic Winter Games and has won gold at every Games since Vancouver 2010. At Milano Cortina, USA is aiming for a fifth successive gold medal.

The last time the Paralympic Winter Games were held in Italy in 2006, Canada won gold. Canada also had to settle for silver at the last two Games and has made the podium six times.

Since Sochi 2014 the host nation has always made the podium. Russia won silver in 2014, while South Korea and China both won bronze in 2018 and 2022 respectively.

Seven nations have won Paralympic medals in the sport.

The most decorated athlete in the sport is the USA's Josh Pauls who has won four gold medals who served as captain of the team at Pyeong-Chang 2018 and Beijing 2022.

Paralympic Winter Games history

After much campaigning by athletes led by legendary Dutch snowboarder Bibian Mentel-Spee, Para snowboard was included as part of the Para alpine skiing programme at the Sochi 2014 Paralympic Winter Games. Two medal events in lower-limb impairment classification for men and women were included in snowboard-cross trial with 45 athletes from 20 countries competing. Mentel-Spee took gold in the women's event and the USA's Evan Strong topped the men's podium.

At PyeongChang 2018, Para snowboard was included in its own right and featured 10 medal events. For men there were events for upper limb and two lower limb classifications, while for women there were event for two lower limb classifications. The USA's Brenna Huckaby and Mentel-Spee won two gold medals apiece, with the Dutch athlete's gold success was even more remarkable as she was fighting terminal cancer.

The Beijing 2022 Paralympic Winter Games featured 75 athletes from 21 countries who competed in eight medal events covering banked slalom and snowboard cross. China completed the sport's first medal sweep in the men's snowboard cross SB-UL.

The sport's most successful female athlete is the USA's Brenna Huckaby (3G, 0S, 1B) and the most decorated male Finland's Matti Suur-Hamari (2G, 1S, 1B).

Paralympic Winter Games history

Wheelchair curling was first included in the Paralympic Winter Games at Torino 2006 and the mixed team's competition has been ever present since.

Canada is the only nation to have medalled at each Paralympic Winter Games and were gold medal winners at Torino 2006, Vancouver 2010 and Sochi 2014. They won bronze at PyeongChang 2018 and Beijing 2022.

China has won gold at the last two Games editions; in 2018 they defeated Norway for gold and on home ice they defeated Sweden to retain their Paralympic title.

To date seven nations have won a medal at the Paralympic Winter Games in the sport. Canada's Sonja Gaudet is the sport's most decorated athlete with three gold medals.

In addition to the mixed team competition, Milano Cortina 2026 will feature mixed pairs for the first time.
